A black and white line drawing on a grid background. Two stylized human figures are shown from the waist up, facing each other. They are both drinking from a large, central, bowl-like vessel. The vessel is filled with a yellow liquid and has a cross-hatch pattern on its surface. The figure on the left is wearing a long, flowing robe and has its right arm raised to its mouth. The figure on the right is also wearing a long, flowing robe and has its right arm raised to its mouth. The entire scene is set against a background of a light gray grid.
